Ellington, Clement, Baker Are Winners In Tennessee Election

By ALLEN GREEN
United Press International

NASHVILLE 6P — Tennessee turned to familiar faces Thursday, nominating Buford Ellington for another gubernatorial term, Frank Chesser as the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate and Howard Baker, Jr., as Clement's Republican opponent.

Gov. Governor Ellington apparently will return to the familiar state capital.

Clement, a household political name for 14 years averaged his only chance at a Washington career.

And Baker, whose father, the late Howard Baker, Sr., was a veteran 2nd District Congressman, will get another crack at the senate seat he came close to winning two years ago.

But one familiar name toppled — Sen. Ross Bass, a veteran of a dozen years in Congress — the last two in the senate — was beaten by Clement.

The other losers are young Nashville lawyers — John Jay Hooker, Jr., and Kenneth Roberts. Ellington crushed Hooker's gubernatorial ambitions with about 53 per cent of the Democratic primary vote.

Baker, son-in-law of Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen, trounced Roberts with approximately 75 per cent of the GOP primary vote. Baker came within 2 per cent of Bass' total in 1964 when the former 10-year representative from Paducah won the last two years of the late Estes Kefauver's term.

The Ellington-Hooker fight, a hard-fought, well-financed battle all the way, had the earmarks of a contest between the Democratic forces of President Johnson and

Odell Hawes Still Critical After Accident

Odell Hawes of Murray remains critically ill in Room 231 at the Memorial Hospital in Clarksville, Tenn., after having been burned on July 21 when the crane on the truck he was working hit a power line and 13,000 volts of power was sent through his body, according to his wife, Mrs. Hawes, who was in Murray today on business.

Mrs. Hawes said her husband was working at the Tennessee Valley Authority substation at Dover, Tenn., when the accident occurred. He is a gas diesel mechanic and was under one of the trucks flat of his back working with his hands-repairing the truck when the crane operator swung the crane around hitting the electric power line sending the high voltage through Hawes' body.

Hawes was thought to be dead at the time, but a TVA employee from Knoxville gave mouth to mouth resuscitation to him and revived him enough so he could be taken to the Clarksville hospital where he regained consciousness in about three hours. Mrs. Hawes said he was burned almost all over his body and head. He is resting fairly well, but will be unable to be removed to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital for some time. It is thought he will have to have skin grafts on his body.

Immediately after the crane hit the wire, the operator pulled the crane away and Mrs. Hawes said officials reported this probably saved her husband's life. The crane operator was not hurt.

Hawes has been a mechanic with TVA for 25 years and works out of the Paris, Tenn., office. He and his wife reside in Murray and she has been with him at the hospital since the accident. They have a son, Larry, now working at Memphis, Tenn., and a daughter, Mrs. Gaylen Alexander of Puryear, Tenn. The grandchildren are Allison and Carolina Hawes of Murray and Dwight and Dwayne Alexander of Puryear, Tenn.

Strike Negotiations Are Reported Stalemated At Meeting Here Thursday

Robert Moyer, General Manager of the Tappan Company's Murray Division said today that the negotiations to settle the strike were completely stalemated and that the situation appeared to be hopeless.

He said that no progress regarding any principal issue had been made during the meeting which was held yesterday and that the company had notified the Union that it was making arrangements to have ranges built by other companies.

Mr. Moyer said that the Union had also been notified that such arrangements had to be made for some definite period and that if the strike should be settled in the interim that there might not be enough work to recall all the striking employees when the strike ended.

Moyer said that in view of the long stalemate and in view of yesterday's meeting that there appeared to be no reason to believe that the strike would be settled in the near future. He said that he was hoping that the company would not lose too many customers during the strike period as that would have an adverse effect upon Murray operations after the strike is settled.

Mr. Moyer said that the company recognized the seriousness of the situation to the community, but said that there seemed to be no other course.

Sandy Harmon, president of Local 1068 UAW CIO-AFL, told the Ledger & Times this morning that the negotiations were still at a standstill and that no meetings are set up at the present time.

Harmon said he hoped that meetings would be arranged for further talks with the company in regard to the settlement of the strike.

The local union members have been on strike since Tuesday, June 21 when picket lines were set up at midnight at the close of the day's work on June 20 when the three year contract between the company and the union expired.

There will be seventeen divisions or classes as follows: showmanship at halter 9-13 years old; showmanship at halter 14-9 years; western horsemanship over 14.2 hands; English pleasure horse over 14.2 hands; western horsemanship 84-88 inches; western horsemanship under 84 inches.

English pleasure ponies under 54 inches; English equitation ages 1-13; English equitation ages 14-19; walking pleasure 14.2 hands and over; western pleasure over 56 inches; walking pleasure pony 54-58 inches; western pleasure under 56 inches; walking pleasure under 54 inches; barrel race western pony; barrel race western horse over 14.2 hands. The show is open to 4-H members only.

The morning stars are Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

There are no evening stars.

Those born today are under the sign of Leo.

French novelist Guy de Maupassant was born on this day in 1850.

On this day in history:

In 1858, the first trans-Atlantic cable was completed.

In 1912, the progressive party, which boiled from the republicans, met in Chicago to nominate Theodore Roosevelt for president.

In 1962, actress Marilyn Monroe died of an overdose of barbiturates.

In 1964, Premier Thieu of the Congo tried to form a coalition government. He failed.

A thought for the day: Ernest Hemingway said: "The first and most important thing of all, at least for writers today, is to strip language clean, to lay it bare down to the bone."

"ALL RISKS" INSURANCE

More and more often, insurance policies on a home or its contents are using that reassuring phrase "all risks." Instead of naming the separate perils you are protected against, like "fire" or "theft" or "windstorm," the policy will wrap them all up in those two short words.

How much protection does that give you? Does it mean you are covered for absolutely everything that can possibly happen to your home?

No, it does not.

For one thing, the policy itself may spell out exceptions. But even if it doesn't, the law will read certain exceptions into the coverage anyhow.

One such exception is a loss which you yourself cause, either on purpose or by extreme negligence. Take two cases:

1) A temperamental farmer flopped his horse to death;

2) A house owner repaired obvious to the obvious while his dog soiled the carpet in more than 75 different places.

Both men claimed insurance under an "all risks" policy. But neither one collected. The courts reasoned that such insurance was never intended to reimburse a person for the consequences of his own flagrant misconduct.

Another exception is a loss property?

No, it does not.

Squirrel Season Starts August 13

Frankfort, Ky., (Special). — One of the earliest squirrel hunting seasons in recent years will open on Saturday, August 13, with surveys indicating a bumper crop of bushy-tails in all sections of the state. Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, said today.

The increased number of squirrels, both the fox and the grey, is a result of better than average woods mast-crops for the past three years, during which the squirrel population flourished, biologists of the Department point out. Increased numbers of squirrel follow good mast crops and with plenty of food for the past three year period, the squirrel population has shown a great increase. However, biologists explain, the mast crop for this coming winter may be lean, due to the late spring frosts, and many of the bushy-tails may die of starvation.

It was for this reason that the season was moved up by about two weeks — to allow hunters to harvest more of the squirrels that would, perhaps, fall victim to starvation conditions predicted for the winter months.

Again this year the hunters will literally have two shots at the squirrel as the seasons have been split. The first phase continues from August 13 through October 31. The second phase opens on December 1 and continues through December 31. The bag limits, governed by statistics, must remain at six per day with a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting.

The use of all breach-loading rifles of .243 caliber and above and shotguns with slugs or buckshot is prohibited at any time or any place for the taking of squirrel. However, squirrels may be taken with any type of muzzle-loading weapons.

Hardboard 'Discovered' By Industry

To the handyman, hardboard is a versatile paneling material. But it has hundreds of other uses that affect our daily lives.

In fact, industry "discovered" hardboard before homeowners did. In one form or another, people sit on it, write on it, drive it, play cards on it, fly it or just look at it. For instance, your television cabinet may be made of sturdy hardboard with an attractive wood-grained surface. Padded hardboard probably forms the backs and seats of your dinette chairs. Plastic-coated hardboard is used for kitchen cabinets, and laminated hardboard for countertops.

Because it takes hard wear and has a smooth surface, hardboard is often found in the children's room as crib ends, play pen bottoms, play table tops and even as toys.

In one of its decorative finishes, hardboard may also be used in your card table, occasional tables, cabinet facings and furniture inserts. Most mirror backings and drawer bottoms are also hardboard.

Automobile door panels and package trays are other places where hardboard is used extensively. And in school, old-fashioned slate blackboards have been replaced with hardboard sprayed with slate paint. In addition to being lightweight, hardboard forms longer unjointed surfaces, and costs less than slate.

When necessary, hardboard even goes to war as lining for tanks, combat trucks and airplane fuselages.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY

LONDON 879 — Queen Mother Elizabeth observed her 69th birthday Thursday. Royal Navy ships and shore batteries fired 21-gun salutes to mark the occasion.

Bridal Breakfast Held At Southside For Judith Shroat

Miss Judith Maltre Shroat, bride-elect of Eddie H. Masters, was complimented with a breakfast at the Southside Restaurant on Wednesday, August 3, at nine-fifteen o'clock in the morning.

The gracious hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Vernon Riley of Murray and Mrs. Clatus Dodd of Warren, Mich.

For the principal event the honoree chose to wear a dress fashioned with a lace bodice and grey and white checked skirt. Her hostesses' gift corsege was of yellow roses.

Mrs. John Shroat, mother of the honoree, wore a pink two piece ensemble, and Mrs. Joe Masters, mother-in-law to be of the honoree, was attired in a yellow linen frock with striped underbores. Both had corsages of white carnations, gifts of the hostesses.

The bride-elect was presented with a gift of linens from Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Dodd.

The table was covered with an arrangement of yellow daisies and the place cards featured yellow flowers. Invited guests were members of the honoree's immediate family and her aunts.

Covers were laid for Miss Jill Shroat, sister of the honoree, Mrs. Jimmy Shroat of Michigan, sister-in-law of the honoree, Mrs. O. T. Farley, Mrs. Rudy Allbright, Mrs. Eugene Geisler, Sr., and Mrs. Lorraine Shroat, all aunts of the honoree, the hostesses, the mothers, and Miss Shroat.

Divorce Makes 'Dad' An Unhappy Man

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a young unmarried police officer. I direct traffic at a busy intersection every morning in Boston. A very pretty blonde girl passes me every morning at the same time in a tan '62 Chevy.

She always smiles and waves, and I smile and wave back. I would like to meet her and get to know her better. How do I go about it?

DEAR INTERESTED: Tell her she is much too pretty to be driving around Boston without police protection. And if they don't open the door, you can cite her for running an officer.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old and very well built. After she graduated from high school (with high honors) she went to modeling school. She has modeled dresses, coats, cosmetics, lingerie, and bathing apparel. She was asked to pose for an artist who specializes in nude photography, and the artist's and sculptor's considered "art." She posed in the nude, in practically the same position for all three.

My question: Why was she the work of the photographer considered pornography, just as all efforts of artists and sculptors are not considered "art"? But an unprincipled jerk with a camera is more likely to try to pass off pornography as art—considerable profit to himself. Who, in this case, decided the photography was "pornographic"?

There are some legitimate arguments as to who is qualified to judge between art and garbage. And I dare say that plenty of some has passed for the other.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teacher now divorced, after having been married for two years.

WHAT ENRAGED?

SAINT RAPHAEL, France 879 — Two weeks ago, Albert Herat's boss sent him on an errand which should have taken 10 minutes.

Herat hasn't shown up yet, neither has the company car he was driving.

Only one clue has filtered back to Herat's boss at Villard-Lans.

In central France a hotel owner at this rivers resort said a Mr. Herat had stayed there for 12 days.

Then he skipped out, leaving the bill.

"BUGGING" FOILED—Frank J. Mrika, 38, holds an electronic listening device as he tells reporters in Washington about being wired and bugged by two Czech diplomats who wanted to "bug" the State Department. The diplomats are Juri Opatry (upper right) and Zdenek Pisk (lower right). Opatry, second secretary of the Czech embassy, was ordered out of the country within three days. Pisk is first secretary of the Czech embassy at the U.N.

This Is Year For Drop-Ins For Jewelry

SPS Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Call it the year of the big drop-in costume jewelry.
Eyes are on ears, especially, as the earrings go dropping to the shoulders and even below in the new trends for fall and winter.
The elongated-bangles are surprisingly light, even when of all rhinestone, or rhinestone and pearl combinations. Even less of a drag on lobes are the many colored novelties done in plastics, often in the offbeat or pop art motifs. These come as discs in two and three inch diameters, or as clusters at the end of long chains.
The long earrings are only part of the big look to jewelry accents. Necklaces are inches-wide "collars," many of them like Pauline Trigere's who meant to fill in otherwise bare deep plunging necklines.
Designer Trigere, who does ready-to-wear plus a variety of accessories, made the bibs in filigree of rhinestones. Jeweled pins serve

THE LEDGER & TIMES

ELLINGTON

Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., although both sides denied it.
Ellington, 59, is a close friend of the President and served as his director of the Office of Emergency Planning before resigning to fight again for the state's top job. Hooker, 55, a lanky liberal, stressed his friendship with the late President John F. Kennedy throughout the campaign.
He pitted his youth and new approach against Ellington's experience — and lost.

Clement's battle with Bass was much closer but he gained revenge for the whopping 97,000 vote defeat he suffered in 1964. And this time, the stacks were higher — six years in the senate as opposed to two.

Clement was one of the nation's youngest governors when he was first elected in 1962 at the age of 32. He held two consecutive terms, leaving office in 1964.

Ellington, Clement's eighth-year man during much of the 1950s and his State Agriculture Commissioner, won a narrow three-cornered gubernatorial race and served until 1962 when Clement won another three-year term.
The Clement defeat in 1964 stunned the state.
His campaign this time was comparatively low-key compared to 1964.

In similar capacity.
Plunging Necklines Jewelry designer Stanley Hagler showed "Poutrine" pins to accentuate plunging necklines. The pins are huge v-shaped masses of gold, pearls and rhinestones, plus giant pearl drops.

Hagler was one of the participants in "accessorials," a roundup of accessories trends, as part of the "National Press Week" held this week for visiting fashion reporters. The New York Couture Business Council Inc. holds the week to give representatives of press, television and radio a total look at what's new in ready-to-wear.

Hagler puts jewelry literally from head to toe, with gold stick pins to go into coiffures not the scalp and rhinestone "laces" for new white leather boots.

In the outside department, look too for ropes and chains of multi-colored stones and beads, huge bangle bracelets, and bracelets copied from the Oriental or slave arm band theme.
Many of the accessories for fall are loaded for "bare."

At accessories, Coblenz "s" and a "bare back" evening be, designed to be slung over the shoulder of a bare-back evening dress. The handbag had rhinestone chain handles attached to silver kilt.

In the ready-to-wear collections shown Friday, one trend stood out sharply — that traditional "little black dress" is in for competition. Colors bright as Joseph's Coat are the new theme. For the firm of Sam Friedlander, the designer Bob Bugnand produced for evening such colors as "glacier mauve" part of the fall trend to any shade of purple and "gold-touched yellow," the latter in a floor-length brocade formal.

The firm of Brink combined purple and yellow in a long chiffon dress, the skirt of cecily chiffon, the bodice purple and yellow band.

Baker frankly admitted he had been running for the senate during the past two years. Some supporters blamed 1964 GOP Presidential Candidate Barry Goldwater for Baker's narrow defeat.

Goldwater was accused of making anti-Tennessee Valley Authority remarks and became the first Republican presidential candidate in three elections to lose Tennessee.

Roberts, a husky ex-Vanderbilt football player, was Goldwater's Tennessee campaign manager. Before he got into the senate race there was speculation he would run for governor.

After he announced for the senate, there was more speculation another young Republican, Rep. William Brock, Chattanooga, might be persuaded to run for governor if Hooker won. After Ellington's strong showing, Brock, regarded in Washington, said he was only interested in running for re-election in the 3rd Congressional District.

Brock faces Democratic opposition from young Franklin Haney, Cleveland.

The congressional action was all in West Tennessee — especially in the 7th District where the dean of the state's congressional delegation, Rep. Tom Murree, D-Tenn., was embroiled in a cliff-hanger for nomination for a 1968 consecutive term. State Rep. Ray Blanton, Adamsville, was within striking distance of Murray in a five-man race for the Democratic nomination.

The only other congressman with opposition was colorful Robert Fats Everett who swamped Halls Mayor Jerry Jordan for the 9th District Democratic nomination.

Former GOP state chairman Julius Hurs, Selmer, had a slight lead over Memphis State University economics professor Shaker Halls for the GOP nomination in the 7th.

Congressmen in the eastern two-thirds of the state were nominated without opposition. They are Rep. James Quillen, 1st District; John Duncan, in the 2nd, both Republicans and Democrats Joe L. Ewins in the 4th; William Anderson in the 6th; Richard Fulton in the 5th and George Grider in the 9th.

Republicans nominated included George Kelly in the 5th and Dan Kuykendall in the 9th.

Public Service Commission Chairman Hammond Fowler, Rockwood, a veteran of 18 years on the PCS, won his bid for reelection to another six-year term over challenger Owen Nicely, Johnson City businessman.
